From Zeno's Arrow Comes Warp Drive: Second Star to the Right, and Straight On Till Morning: Faster Than Light Travel Using the Quantum Zeno Effect William Joseph Bray

From the late Prof. William Joseph Bray There is 10 times more energy [on the moon] there than there ever was in fossil fuel on the Earth. --Gerald Kulcinski, nuclear engineering professor Helium-3. Nuclear fusion with no radioactive waste whatsoever. The product is pure proton, whose electromagnetic pulse is directly converted to electricity. It has already been done in the lab. Unfortunately, the isotope is so rare on Earth that it cannot be used as an energy source. The Moon's surface is covered with it. Although fifty parts per billion doesn't sound like a lot, roughly a 5 by 5 mile patch of lunar soil cut 9 feet deep would power the US for a year with absolutely no radioactive or other pollutants. Patches of Earth this size are cut routinely for mining operations for various ores. As we stand at this very moment with our toes overhanging that cliff, the point of no return for the immanent ecological catastrophe that will literally freeze dry this planet to a completely sterile, lifeless ball, this option that would make the burning of fossil fuels obsolete looks very appealing. The problem is, no way to get all that heavy mining equipment to and from the Moon. Raw materials, resources, space... War. We are at this time absolutely trapped on this planet with no way off. The abundance of resources available throughout the cosmos are not at all available to us. We are trapped, alone, with no ability to reach out to any other point or place in the cosmos; even though we can see the resources we need out there...it is all out of our reach. If we had the means to extend out reach, our ability to travel to any place even limited to just this galaxy, the abundance of resources, space, planetary bodies capable of sustaining agriculture, and so on, would make the burning of fossil fuels obsolete, war over resources obsolete, even commerce itself obsolete, leaving the boundaries and limitations of 'cost' an absurdity; obsolete. It would mean the end of poverty, pollution, hunger, disease, war... And most of all, the struggle to survive, against one another, on a dying planet, would be over. "From Zeno's Arrow Comes Warp Drive : Second Star to the Right, and Straight On Till Morning" "Faster Than Light Travel Using the Quantum Zeno Effect" All of the technology required to construct this engine exist now; some phased array RADAR equipment, cathode ray tube (old style television) technology, and some high speed computing power. The design of the engine is not founded upon anything theoretical. Everything that went into the design of this engine has already been performed in the lab, reproduced, peer reviewed, published... It is merely a matter of slapping the parts together in the right way, a few clever modifications, and nothing more. There is no dollar value to this technology. The entire purpose is to deliver the engine freely to everyone. The purpose is to take a people, a planet that is at this moment dying, and raise it, bring the planet, its people, and everything that lives on it to the highest high. The first people to build this prototype will win. Everything needed to build the prototype is contained within this text. There will be some physical constants and such that have to be determined experimentally, but from that work the prototype can be constructed and demonstrated certainly within a decade.
